Mikoyan Arrives In San Francisco

Rushed Past Egg-Tossing, Yelling Mob

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Soviet first Dep. Anatol Mikoyan flew here Saturday from Chicago — scene of a telephoned bomb threat — and was rushed past fist-shaking, egg-throwing demonstrators at San Francisco's International Airport to a waiting car.

A heavy police escort held off 200 Hungarian and other Iron Curtain country refugees from pressing too close.

None of the eggs hit the Mikoyan party.

The demonstrators angrily shouted "murderer" and "kidnapper" as the car departed immediately for the city. There was no attempt at any welcoming ceremony.

In an effort to outwit the demonstrators, officials had the plane swung away from the concourse here where he had been scheduled to leave it. It was taxied to a spot at the opposite end of the terminal.

Mikoyan's departure from Chicago had been delayed for 39 minutes while United Air Lines switched planes and police checked all luggage. The precaution was taken after an anonymous telephone caller warned that Mikoyan's plane would be blown up.

Also as a precaution, security officers in San Francisco ran Geller counters over the food at the Hotel Fairmont, scene of a banquet for the visiting Soviet official. The officers said this was to guard against any possibility of someone poisoning the food with radioactive substances.

Fifty police, including 15 plainclothesmen, were assigned to assist with the Mikoyan party throughout his visit.

The flight, originally scheduled to take off at 11:20 a.m. started at 10:59. A spokesman for UAL said the threat was made by telephone to a reservations agent in the Airline's Loop office about 3:45 a.m.

The spokesman related that the anonymous caller, speaking in a low masculine voice with a heavy accent, stated: "Listen very carefully. That flight Mikoyan is on will never get off the ground. It will blow up first."

Police were notified and officers were sent to Midway Airport.

The flight on which Mikoyan and his party had reservations came to Chicago from Boston via Hartford, Conn. That plane, a DC7, was searched at both cities, the spokesman said, and also after its arrival in Chicago.

Nothing suspicious was found, but Air Line officials decided to use another DC7 that had been in a hangar at Chicago. That plane had been under guard since the threat was received.

Members of the police bomb squad checked the Mikoyan party's baggage at the Conrad Hilton Hotel and took it to the airport. Other passengers were questioned and their luggage was opened and searched as they boarded the plane.

Mikoyan was the first passenger aboard. He appeared unperurbed by the events.

Nixon Rates Mikoyan An Able Red Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon rates Anatol Mikoyan, the Soviet's top tourist now in this country, as by far the ablest Communist leader he ever has met.

Unlike other Communist chieftains with whom Nixon has exchanged ideas and opinions, the vice president regards Mikoyan as flexible, with a keen sense of humor, and not given to repeating rigid Communist doctrines.

Nixon is convinced the unofficial and highly publicized visit of the Soviet deputy premier will aid relations between Russia and the United States.

Nixon's impressions of the Soviet No. 2 leader were formed during a good-natured but crisp visit in the vice president's office last Tuesday. It lasted more than two hours.

An authentic version of Nixon's impressions was obtained Saturday on an informal basis.

Before they met, Nixon was convinced Mikoyan, as a veteran of more than 25 years in Soviet politics, would give only routine answers to questions.

Instead, Nixon was jolted to hear Mikoyan come back with unexpected answers, some of them tinged with accurate background knowledge of this country, its economy and political traditions.

Mikoyan indicated he and other Kremlin leaders knew that Democrats as well as Republicans supported major international policies of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, such as continuation of West Berlin as a free world area.

The American language is rich in such proverbial expressions or sayings, like "A little bird told me," or "I've been working like a dog."

Where did they come from?

Archib Taylor, professor of German, emeritus, at the University of California, and Bartlett Jere Whiting, professor of English at Harvard University, have compiled such American sayings in "A Dictionary of American Proverbs and Proverbial Phrases," to be published this week by the Harvard University Press.

Expect Congress To Speed Legislation Ike Is Likely To Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic-dominated Congress apparently is going to present President Eisenhower quickly with a series of bills he may feel he has to veto.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas obviously is hurrying the Senate through its controversy over filibuster rules to clear the way for speedy action on a legislative program.

High on the list of measures Johnson wants to lay on Eisenhower's desk is an airport bill similar to one the President vetoed last year on the ground there should be more local participation in the jet-age expansion program.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Oklahoma) expects to hold hearings quickly on this measure and have it ready for Senate consideration. The bill would boost present federal matching funds from 63 million dollars to 100 million annually for five years, with an additional special fund of 75 million dollars that need not be matched.

Behind the airport bill is likely to be an omnibus housing measure providing federal assistance far in excess of the amount Eisenhower is expected to recommend.

It may take some time for the Democrats to agree on a farm program. When they do it is not likely to coincide with Eisenhower's general State of the Union proposals for lowering federal spending in this field while giving farmers more planting and marketing freedom.

A bill for federal aid to economically depressed areas, another likely target for an Eisenhower veto, also is on the agenda for early consideration by both houses. A similar bill last year was killed by a veto.

With their increased majorities in both houses, Democratic leaders believe they will be able to override many of the vetoes they expect to be forthcoming.

Although an influx of new Democrats from last November's election has boosted total support for proposals that Eisenhower may not find palatable, Democratic conservatives can be counted on to join with some Republicans in voting to sustain vetoes of many of the spending measures.

The Republican old line contingent, however, was shrunk in last year's elections, and some GOP liberals can be expected to go along with their Democratic counterparts in voting for more spending than Eisenhower would like to undertake.

3 Young Girls Beaten, One Dies; Hold Artist, 25

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Three young girls were savagely bludgeoned Saturday, one fatally, in what police said may have been the outgrowth of a grudge against the dead girl's mother.

Held for questioning was Glenn R. Holscher, 25, Minneapolis, a commercial artist.

Detective Capt. Cliff Egelund said Holscher had been identified as the assailant by one of the girls and by a fourth beating victim, a 15-year-old brother of the dead girl.

Egelund said Holscher showed police where he had concealed a gun under the dashboard of his car after returning home early Saturday. The youngsters evidently were beaten with a gun, police said.

Authorities said Saturday Mikoyan probably will visit Eisenhowers Saturday instead. Mikoyan is touring this country, making speeches urging more trade, better understanding, and better relations between the United States and the Soviet Union and calling for settlement of outstanding issues.

But a week-long analysis of Mikoyan's talks with Dulles, Vice President Nixon, and many private citizens and diplomats here last Sunday and Monday has led State Department officials to the conclusion that so far he has failed

Stirs Interest In Mikoyan, Ike's Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The surprise Soviet bid for a hurry-up 28-nation German peace conference is unacceptable as it stands, diplomatic officials said Saturday. But they promised careful study to see whether the move opens new possibilities for actual negotiation of German issues.

President Eisenhower and Soviet First Deputy Premier Anatol Mikoyan are sure to discuss the Soviet proposal when they meet here late this week. The timing of Moscow's announcement Saturday may have been determined by Mikoyan's impending meetings with Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty disclosed that the surprise selected date of Jan. 19 or 20 had been changed and that a new date will be announced Monday for Mikoyan's call at the White House. The reason for the change, it was learned, is that Eisenhowers schedule then is dominated by his plan to welcome President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina to Washington Jan. 20.

Commission U.S. Newest, Biggest Aircraft Carrier

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's newest aircraft carrier — a 100-million-dollar giant as tall as a 25-story building and bearing the name Independence — was dedicated Saturday.

The namesake of one of the bravest vessels of World War II, the sleek, new USS Independence was officially delivered to Rear Adm. Chester C. Wood, commandant of the Third Naval District, by Rear Adm. Schuyler N. Payne, commander of the New York naval shipyard.

Price cuts continued throughout the week and Saturday milk could be obtained in the stores for 84 to 86 cents a gallon, dropped to 60 cents.

A dairy products price war started last Monday when the price of milk, which had been selling for 84 to 86 cents a gallon, dropped to 60 cents.

One store slashed the price of certain 15-cent loaves of bread to 10 cents and customers left with their arms loaded.

The milk price war started after the Prairie Farms Dairy Co. of Mount Sterling entered the Canton market.

"The bad feeling apparently stems from this other woman's belief that Mrs. Gross or her children may have informed to police when she procured liquor for a minor," Egelund said.

The woman was taken into custody for questioning.

The Rev. Dr. Westburg said:

"Mental health experts emphasize that clergymen are in a unique position to combat mental illness, because they work closely with people in a family setting."

"Also they are the only professional men in the community who deal with people in normal times as well as in times of crisis. This gives them a chance to spot mental illness coming, and help nip it in the bud."

As a result of their work in the project, the Indiana clergymen have made plans to institute a regular pre-marital counseling course in Kokomo.

The clergymen will discuss various mental health problems arising within the family, especially the stresses of divorce and broken homes. Special problems involving older persons and suicide are other subjects.

The Rev. Dr. Westburg is former pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church in Bloomington.

Soviet Proposes Talks On German Peace Pact

Urge Meet Within Next Two Months

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Saturday proposed the speedy negotiation of a German peace treaty as a step toward settling the West Berlin problem. It suggested a 28-nation peace conference in Warsaw or Prague within two months.

The proposal was made in a 12-page note to 27 other countries which had fought against Hitler's forces in World War II.

With it the Kremlin distributed a 25-page proposal for a draft treaty for Germany which, except for some additions, was similar to a draft ordered by former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to the unsuccessful Foreign Ministers' Conference in Berlin in 1954.

(U.S. officials in Washington and Western officials in Berlin said the proposal appeared unacceptable in its present form.) One addition proposed that West Berlin be an unarmed free city until East and West Germany are united. The Western powers already have turned down the idea of a free city.

The draft included several other proposals which have been turned down by the West in the past. Among them: that all foreign troops withdraw from Germany within a year after the treaty is effective and that Germany may be prohibited from joining any political or military bloc that does not include all signatory nations.

The Russians said Red China should be at the peace conference, and that the treaty should be signed both by East and West Germany and by a new federation of the two Germans. These two suggestions alone seemed certain to draw a negative reaction from the West.

President Eisenhower accepted Smith's resignation in a letter expressing regret and appreciation for his services.

Attorney General Asks $1,647,631 For New Building

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Latham Castle said his office force of about 50 is jammed into quarters intended for less than a dozen and asked for an estimated $1,647,631 new building.

In a report to Gov. Stratton, Castle urged that Illinois' budget of the 1959-61 biennium include provision for its construction.

News Notes From JHS

By
Connie Hazelrigg and Donna Woodruff

After a Christmas vacation, students are working hard again to prepare for semester examinations which will be given in class periods during the next two weeks.

— J —

Our best wishes go to Senior Dave Bone who is in the hospital. We hope he will be back with us soon.

— J —

The cast has been chosen and practice is now underway for the Junior play which will be presented on January 23 in the High School Auditorium. Directed by Miss Ann Russell Janes, this year's choice is "Uncle Fred Flits" by P. G. Wodehouse.

— J —

The vocal music department, under the direction of Mr. Donald Lord, is busy with plans for their April 30 and May 1 presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan musical comedy, "Patience." Tryouts for solo parts and a chorus are now being held. The results will probably be announced during the next two weeks.

— J —

The Junior class is in a state of suspense waiting for announcement concerning the choice of Prom chairmen and next year's "J" editors. The editors of the yearbook are being chosen this year so that they may work with the 1959 staff during the second semester.

— J —

Work on the "J" staff is progressing rapidly in preparation for the next deadline on January 15.

Routt Highlights

by

By Marilyn Cors and Elizabeth Curtis

The faculty members and the students are deeply saddened by the recent death of Sister Mary Angelica, Routt's Latin instructor for the past nine years. The faculty and the student body assisted at a Solemn High Mass said for her on January 5, at the Church of Our Saviour and on Wednesday, at a Requiem High Mass at Sacred Heart Convent Chapel in Springfield.

R H S

Students spent the past week reviewing and preparing for semester tests which will be held on January 12, 13, 14, and 15.

R H S

Congratulations to Virginia Craddock who was named a semi-finalist in the Illinois State Scholarship testing program.

R H S

Rosemary Higgins was the hostess for the senior girls at a party Sunday afternoon, December 28. All the guests enjoyed playing "Back-A-Rack" and "Charades."

R H S

Coach Winstead and the Rockets did an excellent job during Routt's Holiday Tournament. They took second place honors, having bowed to the New Berlin Pretzels, who earned the championship title.

R H S

There will be two representatives from Routt at the All-State Music Festival to be held on the campus of the University of Illinois on January 30-31. They are Mary Lou Langdon, chorus, and Virginia Craddock, band.

R H S

On January 8th, Mrs. Catherine Bacon, R.N., and Richard Graber, Morgan County Health Educator, presented movies about Tuberculosis and afterwards explained the importance of receiving the Tuberculin skin test. Routt students will receive this skin test on January 20.

R H S

The junior girls met for a holiday "get together" Sunday, January 4. Josephine Reavy was the hostess. The girls attended a movie and later enjoyed refreshments.

Two Morgan Couples Have Anniversaries

FRANKLIN—The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reagel was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whittleck on Sunday afternoon from 2 until 4.

The daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Calhoun of Evansville, Ind., planned all the arrangements for the occasion. Mrs. Reagel wore a corsage of yellow roses, a gift from her husband. Mrs. Essie Henderson and Miss Lou Duncan served cake and golden punch, with yellow and white mint patties and salted nuts to the guests.

The table was decorated with yellow candles and a tiered cake embellished with confectioner's yellow rose and green leaves and topped with a 50th anniversary scroll. Many friends and relatives called and they received a number of lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Parrish Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Parrish celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Sunday afternoon. Their daughters, Mrs. Amos Nunes of St. Louis and Mrs. Harry Butcher made all the plans for the occasion.

Mrs. Parrish wore a corsage of yellow carnations and her husband a yellow boutonniere.

A golden basket of gilded jumbo and hydangas topped with a miniature bride and groom was the gift of a friend and made a pleasing addition to the decorations.

The daughters served cake, yellow mints and nuts with coffee or punch to the many friends and relatives who attended. The center of attraction on the serving table was a tiered cake decorated with gold shot and topped with a 50th anniversary scroll.

Donald Lashmet Of Winchester Weds Patricia Andrews At Macomb Church

Winchester—Miss Patricia Andrews of Macomb and Donald T. Lashmet of Winchester were married in a pre-Christmas ceremony performed at St. Paul's Catholic church in Macomb.

The afternoon service on December twenty was solemnized by the Rev. Joseph Kelly. Red poinsettia plants and fern adorned the altar of the church. Mrs. William O'Neil was organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Andrews of Macomb and Mr. Lashmet is the son of Mrs. Audrey Lashmet of Winchester and the late Jonas Lashmet.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an embroidered organza gown made with Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. The three-tier bouffant skirt ended in a chapel length train.

Her fingertip veil was attached to a lace crown trimmed with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. She carried a large white orchid on a white Missal.

Mrs. Richard Lashmet, sister-in-law of the groom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sally Chandler and Miss Sherry Bobroff of Macomb.

They wore dresses of opera green with three-quarter length sleeves and cowl necklines cut V-in the back. The harem skirts were slightly longer than ballerina length. They carried colonial bouquets of green and white carnations and lace shower.

Georgia Sue Brown and Stanley Brown, cousins of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively. Georgia Sue wore a nylon floor length dress and Stanley wore a navy tuxedo.

Pat Lashmet served as best man and Don, George and Joe O'Donnell were ushers. Men in the wedding party were in formal wear.

The bride's mother wore French blue jersey and the groom's mother also chose blue. Both had gardenia corsages.

At Pace Hotel

A reception was held at the Crystal Room of the Pace Hotel. A three tier wedding cake, decorated in the bride's chosen colors, green and white, was served.

Charline Preston of Macomb, Ila Robbins of Monroe City, Mo., Mrs. Pete Hendrick of Carthage and Miss Mary Eleanor Wolfe presided at the reception table. Mrs. Toni Crensey had charge of the guest book.

The bride, a graduate of Western High School and Burlington Spring trip the bride was wearing Beauty Academy, has been a costume suit in blue and green with black accessories.

The groom, a graduate of the Winchester High School and Western Illinois University, is serving two years in the Army.

Frieda Roegge And Kansas City Man Married At Arenzville Church Jan. 4

ARENZVILLE—An impressive evening ceremony performed Sunday, Jan. 4, at the Trinity Lutheran church in Arenzville, united in marriage Miss Frieda Roegge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roegge of Arenzville, and Lawrence Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hines of Kansas City, Mo.

The four o'clock service was conducted by the Rev. Herbert Rose of Jacksonville, before an altar decorated with baskets of white glads, mums, and ferns, and flanked with lighted tapers in branched candelabra.

Nuptial selections were played at the organ by Robert Wessler, who also played the traditional wedding marches, and accompanied the soloist, Waldron Paul, who sang "Because" preceding the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The speaker theorized Jacksonville must be the highest organized town in the country according to the volume of club news, organization and social events in our local papers every day. He suggested one counting all such organizations they know of and a person could realize the great task of our freedom could end. Newspapers guard many forces and strive for impartial views of all stories.

Mr. Ridgway pointed out how advertising is an important part of our economy.

The speaker read a letter from Mrs. E. C. Coatney, division press chairman, commanding Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie, local press chairman.

The scribe for Intermediate Troop No. 27, Carol Flynn, has sent us the following news article: "The girls in Troop 27 have finished their library and are taking books out any time they want one. The girls made little snowmen for their mothers and fathers. They made little baskets and filled them with candy for the sanatorium. On the last Monday before Christmas they had a party. They had games, a gift exchange, and refreshments. After the gift exchange they went to the sanatorium. They gave the patients the baskets and sang Christmas carols for them."

Pilots To Get Out Easter Seal Envelopes

Largest of American Protestant church denominations is Methodist.

Bread can be stored in your freezer for two or three months without losing any of its freshness.

Members of the Pilot Club of Jacksonville held a business dinner meeting Wednesday, Jan. 7, and a meeting of the board at Hotel Dunlap. Plans were made for the group to undertake the addressing and filling of envelopes this month for the Crippled Children's Easter Seal Sale.

Last year this club, a comparatively small number to undertake a mailing list of several thousand, spent many working hours filled already addressed envelopes for county mailing. This year Pilot has been asked to undertake the entire job of addressing and filling the mailing list.

Club members, equipped with portable typewriters, will gather at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday evening, Jan. 13th, at Production Press offices for this work planned under guidance of E. G. Pigott.

The meeting January 1 was conducted by the president, Miss Vera Seaton, Rhoda Samoore, community service chairman, reported on helping two local needy families during the holidays, and also the club's participation in the Tree of Lights program.

Saturday, Jan. 10, Pilots were responsible for a broadcast over station WLDS by Marie Barton concerning projects of the club.

A nominating committee was named, Mary Walters, chairman, Dorothy Lukeman and Jo Milligan, to report at the February meeting.

Xi Lambda Chapter Meets At Daniel Home

Mrs. Eva Daniel was hostess to Xi Lambda chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, Monday evening, Jan. 5, at her home, 9 Turner Road. The Daniel home was attractively decorated with winter scene arrangements of styrofoam, white candles, bells and flowers.

The business meeting, conducted by the president, Margaret Fitzpatrick, was followed by an interesting program, introduced by chairman, Alpha Quay. Mrs. Quay presented Mrs. Bernita Dodson who developed her program, "High Moments With Nature," from the Exemplar course of study, Written In Our Hearts. Mrs. Dodson opened her program by asking each to answer roll call by telling of a personal experience that was a high moment of nature to her. Many scenic places in different parts of United States as well as local scenes were described by members.

A social hour followed the program during which time Mrs. Daniel presented door prizes to Alpha Quay, Bernita Dodson, and Jessie Lakin. At the close of the evening the hostess served delicious refreshments in keeping with the winter motif.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gladys Crawford, 342 W. State on Monday, Jan. 19.

51 Bid Farewell To Arenzville Family

ARENZVILLE—A church family night program was held at the Arenzville Methodist church on Monday, Jan. 5, honoring the Karl Franke family.

Fifty-one persons enjoyed an evening of fellowship during the family night program, which was given in honor of the Karl Franke family who are moving from the Arenzville community to live at Belvidere, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Franke, Linda and Luanna moved to the Arenzville community some five years ago and have been active in all phases of the church.

Especially were they commended for their part in the youth work in the church.

During the program Ernest Strickler expressed the church's appreciation to the Franke's for their part in the church activity since transferring their letter from the church in their former community. Mr. Strickler also presented the Franke's with a gift on behalf of the church.

Mrs. Harold Lovekamp and Mrs. Harold Wessler were welcomed as new members of the society. There were 33 members and four guests present.

As January is the month for the mission quarterly the mite box offering amounted to $60. Mrs. L. J. Wessler, secretary, read several "Thank You" notes from various institutions for gifts received from the Society at Christmas.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Herbert Tegeder.

The birthday hymn was sung for Mrs. C. E. Germeroth, Mrs. Arthur Lovekamp, Mrs. Elmer Roegge, Mrs. Willard Peck and Mrs. Albert Witte, members having birthdays in January.

The noon luncheon was served by Mrs. C. E. Germeroth, Mrs. John Fricke, Mrs. William Suppe, and Mrs. Horne Fricke.

The day was spent in quilting for charitable purposes.

Two supervisors on runway projects scraped fenders of their autos.

RUNWAY CRASH

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Patrolman C. W. Wingo's car leaped into action as the radio reported a crash at runways 624 and 1533 at the Richmond airport. His report:

"Two supervisors on runway projects scraped fenders of their autos."

Three of the oldest houses of worship in America are located in Newport, R. I. They are the Quaker Meeting House, built 1699; Seventh Day Baptist Meeting House, 1729, and the Touro Synagogue, 1763.

Khrushchev, Moving In Stalin's Steps, Prepares Show Trial Of Ousted Rivals

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—There are increasing signs that under cover of the Berlin crisis Nikita Khrushchev is preparing to stage a "show trial" of his ousted rivals that might overshadow even the purges of Joseph Stalin.

It is still unknown whether the "trial" of ex-President members Vyacheslav Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and Marshal Georgi Zhukov will precede or follow the special Communist Party congress scheduled to meet on Jan. 27 in Moscow.

The consensus of Western intelligence sources in Russia is that the Soviet Premier is preparing feverishly for the knockout blow.

The fact that Khrushchev has had to call a special congress one year ahead of schedule is seen as evidence that he is racing against time. Khrushchev, who loves proverbs, obviously believes that "he who loses his nerve may also lose his life."

Secret preparations for the show trial also threw new light on the U.S. visit of Anastas Mikoyan, Khrushchev's current international confidence man. Like the sudden Soviet-provoked crisis over Berlin, Mikoyan's trip is seen by Western observers as designed:

To divert attention from the new flare-up in the Kremlin.

To negotiate another Big Power summit meeting—without the participation of Red China—that would bolster Khrushchev's prestige.

NATO diplomats now believe that Moscow's war threat over Berlin is Red blackmail to browbeat the West into a summit conference as designed:

Careful analysis of Khrushchev's mentality and Soviet military strength point to Russia pushing things to the brink and then compromising for a diplomatic success.

He needs a summit meeting to offset the severe setback his leadership has suffered in Yugoslavia, France, Italy, East Germany, Jordan, Burma, Lebanon and Latin America.

Even Japan's Communists, once obedient tools of the Russians, now look to Red China for leadership. The Japanese Communist Party, still smarting from its stinging electoral defeat last spring, is shifting from Khrushchev's popular front policy of "peaceful coexistence" to one stressing Mao Tse-tung's theory of violent internal revolution.

Alexander Shelepin, 40, Khrushchev's new chief of the secret police charged with preparing the show trial, actually assumed his duties last April (and not in December) when he gave up his job as first secretary of the Young Communist League in connection with "transfer to other work."

Only the position of Marshal Georgi Zhukov remains obscure. He is still a popular war hero in Russia and has many powerful friends in the Red Army. Whether the Marshal finally appears at the trial as an "enemy" of the party line or a "repentant sinner" will depend on how much he is ready to cooperate with Khrushchev in condemning Malenkov and Molotov.

To remain top dog in the Kremlin, Khrushchev must reckon with the disgruntled officers in the Red Army and with the still-powerful chiefs of the Stalin era led by Mikhail Suslov.

A similar role was assigned by Stalin in the purge trials of his predecessor Stalin.

Consider former Premier Nikolai Bulganin, the man who traveled with Khrushchev to Geneva, London and Asia, and of the recently deposed chief of police, Gen. Ivan Serov. Both are being groomed as chief witnesses at the trial.

A similar role was assigned by Stalin in the purge trials of the 1930's to Karl Radek, a close associate of Lenin, and to another former police chief, Henryk Yagoda. Stalin promised to spare their lives if they would appear as "voluntary" witnesses against his rivals. Both were killed after they "confessed."

Even in giving the ax to Serov the Soviet Premier is following closely Stalin's cagey strategy. It is now clear that the former police chief was fired not in December, 1958—as announced officially by the Kremlin—but seven months earlier.

Thus, under Stalin, Henryk Yagoda retained officially the title of police chief even months after he had been a prisoner in Moscow's Lubianka dungeons.

Coach Sherill Hanks' strong Alton team will play in the Dupo tournament on Jan. 14-15-16-17. The Redbirds played at Collinsville Friday night and entertained Belleville on Saturday in Southwestern conference engagements. East St. Louis will play at Alton on Jan. 23 and Granite City will play there on Jan. 24. Alton takes a trip to Quincy high on Jan. 31 with the Blue Devils.

Bend high is looking for a football game next season and the open date is the eighth game of the schedule. Coach Louis Polovich of Bend should be contacted if any high school is interested in playing the Indians next fall.

Lawrence (Bumpy) Nixon, Galesburg's 6-6 junior standout, will be 19 around Regional tournament time in 1960 and Knox County fans are counting on this year for the Silver Streaks to nail down the state title. Galesburg beat a fine Rich Township five Saturday night 72-59 at Park Forrest. The new age limit will go into effect next season and Nixon will be ineligible on his 19th birthday.

Bobby Joe Mason of Bradley U. rates as one of the all time Bradley greats in free throws as he hit 113 of 141 last season for 80% percentage and the year before he had a 824 mark. The former Centralia high star was Bradley's number two scorer last year, scoring 353 points for a 15 average. Joe Billy McDade, 6-6 center for Bradley U., a straight A student last semester and he hit 395 from the field last season for the Braves.

Coach Russ Ahearn's Streator Bulldogs fell two points short of the record for a single game scoring mark in Kankakee's Ninth Annual Holiday tourney. The Streator five scored 80 points in beating Waukegan and missed the record of 82 set by Kankakee in 1952. Waukegan set a record with 31 points in the final period against Streator and it beat the old mark of 30 points set by Morton of Cicero in 1954. Walt Rucks, former head coach at Winchester High, is the assistant coach at Waukegan high school. Waukegan high has been invited to play in Canton's Holiday tourney next December according to Coach Chuck Crosby, East Peoria, Kewanee and Richwoods (Peoria) have accepted invitations to this tourney and Lincoln (East St. Louis) has been invited to the eight team double elimination meet.

Gene Vallino of Edwardsville high set a mark in the Mt. Vernon tourney with 36 points against McLeansboro. The record was formerly held by Oliver (Big Cat) Rollins of Carrier Mills with 33 points in a single game during the Egyptian Holiday tourney.

Vallino is 6-3 forward for Coach Joe Lucco's Tigers of the Southern conference.

Shabbona high will attempt to win the State title like little Hebron did in 1952. The town of Northern Illinois with a 650 population copped the DeKahl Holiday tourney and beat two touchies including West Aurora and Rock Falls. Coach Francis Wagner's lads have played together since sophomores and posted a 21-6 record that year and last season enjoyed a fine 26-2 mark. Bill Small of West Aurora high scored 35 points against Shabbona high and he led the Blackhawks to the State tourney at Champaign last year.

Buchholz Wins Junior Title In Aussie Playoffs

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Crown Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis won the junior title in the Western Australian Tennis Championships Saturday and promptly disposed of the University of Detroit basketball team 73-62.

Tom Hawkins, Notre Dame's top scorers who suffered a sprained ankle at North Carolina a week ago, remained on the bench. Coach Johnny Jordan said he probably will be back in uniform for the game at DePaul of Chicago Tuesday.

Notre Dame didn't need Hawkins Saturday. The Irish ran up a 12-0 lead in the first four minutes and expanded the margin to 71-51 before Detroit cut into it while reserves were getting experience.

Bob Bradike topped balanced Irish scoring with 17 points, one on a free throw. Little Ray Albee led Detroit with 14.

Michigan Nudges Ohio State In TV Tilt, 78-74

By DAVE DILES

Associated Press Sports Writer ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—C. Burton and George Lee led Michigan to 78-74 Big Ten basketball triumph over Ohio State Saturday in a frantic contest.

Burton's rebounding and Lee's point production in the second half of the regionally televised game staked the Wolverines to an 11-point lead. But they needed a furious finish to hand Ohio its second conference defeat in as many starts.

The Buckeyes closed fast too, but never were able to get the upper hand.

Six times OSU narrowed Michigan's advantage to a single point but each time the Wolverines were able to pull away.

In the closing seconds, costly personal fouls turned the tide Michigan's way.

Ohio's Richie Hoyt scored on a jump shot with 40 seconds to play and Michigan took a 75-74 lead. But Burton was fouled in the act of shooting and calmly dropped both free throws for a 77-74 advantage. John Tidewell, brilliant sophomore, was fouled seconds later and dropped through the final point.

The Wolverines scored their second and Big Ten victory against one defeat.

CUP MEMBERS EXEMPTED

SANDWICH, England (AP)—British and U.S. Walker Cup golfers will be exempted from the qualifying rounds of the British Amateur Golf Tournament, the Royal and Ancient Club said Saturday. The British Amateur is May 25-30 while the Walker Cup matches are May 15-16.

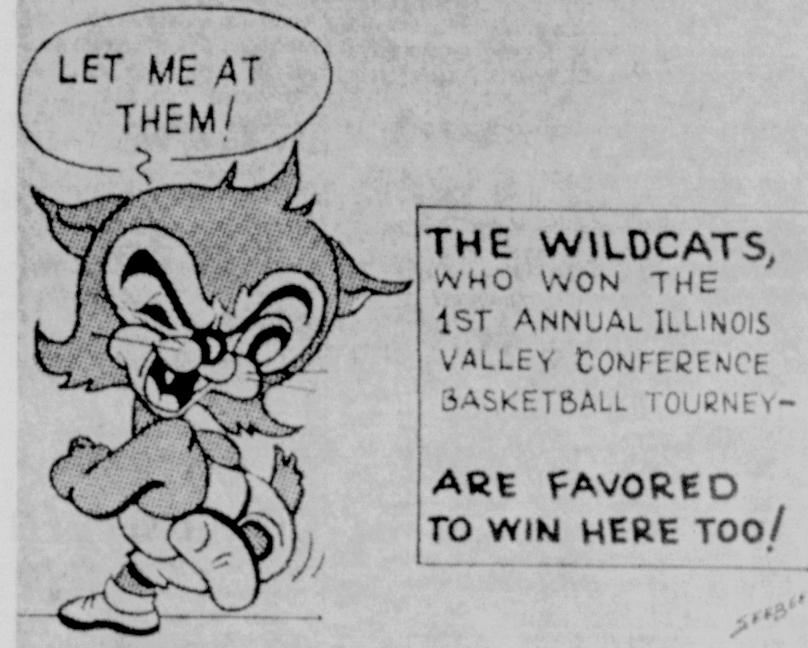

Only four members of Syracuse University's baseball team come from outside New York state. Two are from New Jersey and one from Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

Phillips Stars In Houston's Loss To Cincy

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Plastering Bill Phillips with a $1,000 fine and a 30-day suspension was the toughest thing Will Harridge had to do in 27 years as American League president.

"It happened on July 4, 1932, just a little more than a year after I had taken office," the retiring league president reflected in an interview Saturday.

"Two quiet and inoffensive men were involved—catcher Bill Dickey of the Yankees and outfielder Carl Reynolds of Washington. At Griffith Stadium that July 4, Dickey took a punch at Reynolds at the plate and broke his jaw. The facts as I received them demanded action. I fined Dickey $1,000 and suspended him 30 days."

"Col. Jacob Ruppert (wealthy backer of the Yankees) said I was robbing New York of the pennant and vowed he never would speak to me again. But he relented. Even without Dickey for a month, the Yankees won with 107 victories and defeated the Cubs four straight in the World Series."

As Harridge mused over 27 years, these incidents stirred his memory the most:

The high spot:

"That would be the moving of the major league franchises—Philadelphia to Kansas City and St. Louis to Baltimore. We never thought it would happen."

The greatest innovation—

"The introduction of night ball in 1933. Attendance jumped from 3 million to 10 or 11 million. The whole world was given a chance to enjoy baseball."

The most important part of his job—

"Maintaining discipline on the field. It never can be relaxed. The first step is the hiring and handling of the umpiring staff and giving it full hacking."

Something most people don't know—

"The players never asked for a pension. It was the brainchild of Larry MacPhail at a meeting with player representatives in 1946."

What about television—

"It will have the effect of making more fans just like radio did. It can be helpful if it is controlled."

I don't know what to say," he said, "because I haven't received any contract."

Pierce appeared more interested in the upcoming American League race. He believes the Detroit Tigers, who traded him off years ago, will be much improved.

What about the New York Yankees, and the White Sox?

"I think the league will have better balance," Pierce replied, "and that will make the Yankees' job tougher. If anyone overtakes them, I believe the White Sox can do it."

Harridge Calls Suspension Of Dickey Toughest

Sox Announce 30-Game Spring Exhibition Card

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Saturday announced a 30-game spring exhibition schedule, including 11 jousts with National League clubs.

The Sox will play 26 games in Florida with only four on the trip home, compared with 11 last year.

Vice President Chuck Comiskey explained:

"Most clubs are curtailing their one-night stands this season because of the shortage of playable diamonds and the weather hazards involved."

"A club spends five or six weeks under Florida's sunny skies and then can lose that fine edge if it is rained or frozen out of three or four games between the time it leaves Florida and arrives in its hometown."

This caused a scrapping of the Sox-S. Louis Cardinals "road show" which had prevailed since 1954. Last year the White Sox made 11 stops between Tampa and Chicago, nine with the Cards and two with Washington.

Phillips' stick with Robertson all started.

The facts as I received them were involved—catcher Bill Dickey of the Yankees and outfielder Carl Reynolds of Washington. At Griffith Stadium that July 4, Dickey took a punch at Reynolds at the plate and broke his jaw. The facts as I received them demanded action. I fined Dickey $1,000 and suspended him 30 days."

Industrial, Civic Leaders Honored At Testimonial Banquet

Winchester Council Studies Swimming Pool Proposals

by Nancy Hainsfurther
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone Pioneer 2-2256)

WINCHESTER—The Winchester City Council was presented two plans for raising the funds needed for the building of a municipal swimming pool in the city at the regular Council meeting held Wednesday night, January 7. Mrs. Charles Marshall, president of the Park Board; L. Allan Wait, representative of the board; Mrs. R. R. Funk, chairman of the Swimming Pool Association, and Ted Forshey, a member of the group, met with the council which was presided over by Mayor Horace Walmsley.

The idea of a swimming pool for the community has been talked about, worked on, and laid aside for several years. Through the work of the Winchester Woman's Club a total of $4,000 was raised and put in a fund for the future pool. When the Obermeyer Estate was settled $10,000 was left to the City for recreational purposes. This makes a total of $14,000 on hand. When a representative of Pascal Paddock, Incorporated of Oklahoma City was here recently he proposed a plan for a pool sufficient for the size of the community and adjoining areas which would cost approximately $55,000 and $58,000.

To raise the necessary dollars the committee represented at the Council meeting proposed either a bond issue to be voted upon at the time of the general election in April which would be cheaper than having a special election or public subscription. The subject was tabled until the Council meeting next week, January 14. It is suggested that you, the people, who will pay for the pool, use the pool, and pay for its upkeep, be at this Council meeting to voice your opinions. To sit home and think one way or the other will not help; be at the City Hall at 7:30 p.m.

The Parent Teacher Association was given the authority through an Ordinance passed at the Wednesday meeting to stop traffic at the grade school during certain hours of the day to insure the safety of the students crossing a major highway. Details of this plan will be announced after the PTA meets this week.

Burglars Visit Franklin School; Money Stolen

The Franklin Junior High and High School building at Franklin was burglarized last week, it was learned yesterday, with a loss of a small amount of money. The thieves entered through a window in the rear of the building.

The Future Homemakers of America candy cabinet was broken into, but apparently money was the only object of search.

Several present councilmen whose terms expire this spring have filed petitions, but two aldermen, Lewis Sims and Fred Goodey, are not candidates for reelection.

Only one contest was in prospect as the last day for filing closed Saturday, this being in the Second Ward. Alderman F. C. (Dick) Fitzsimmons will be opposed for nomination by John Schultz. Both candidates are Republicans.

Five Democrats filed in five wards, but there are vacant spots in the Third and Sixth wards on the Democratic ticket.

The primary in February will be followed by the election April 21.

The following petitions were on file at noon Saturday when City Clerk John R. Phillips closed his office:

Republican
First Ward—Clarence O. Scott (incumbent).

Second Ward—F. C. (Dick) Fitzsimmons (incumbent); John V.

Third Ward—Robert Sheerin (incumbent).

19. Removal of Brush from Pastureland—cost share $10.00 per acre, not to exceed 50% of cost.

12-Month Drylot Silage Feeding Found Efficient

URBANA—Illinois cattle feeders who now have an automatic silage feeding system in operation might well consider using it through next year's pasture season instead of turning their cattle onto pasture.

G. R. Carlisle, University of Illinois extension livestock specialist, reports that this may be a good way to make maximum use of expensive automatic silage-handling equipment. Illinois research trials show that feeding silage all year also makes more efficient use of roughage than running cattle on pasture during the summer.

In a recently completed trial at the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station, researchers divided yearling steers wintered on corn silage into two lots. They turned half of the steers onto pasture last spring and full-fed them ear corn. They fed the other half ground ear corn and grass-legume silage in drylot during the summer.

Although the pasture used in each case was similar, the researchers found that direct pasturing would support 2½ steers an acre, while enough roughage was cut as silage to support 6.4 steers an acre.

The drylot cattle also gained a bit faster, ate more feed and were somewhat fatter at the end of the pasture season than the cattle on pasture.

Costs of grains for the two feeding methods were nearly identical.

Rows 24 Inches Apart Produce Most Soybeans

URBANA—Farmers who plant soybeans in rows 40 inches apart may be losing five or more bushels an acre, according to the latest research results at the University of Illinois.

Tests by agronomists J. W. Pennington, H. H. Hadley and R. L. Bernard show that highest yields were produced in rows spaced only 24 inches apart. These rows out-yielded spacings of 3, 32 and 40 inches.

The agronomists made four different plantings ranging from May 12 through June 27. They used Chippewa, Harosoy, Shirley and Clark varieties. With all planting dates and all varieties, the 24-inch rows produced the highest yields.

It looks as if, any way you figure it, Illinois farmers are losing soybean yields by planting in 40-inch rows. The agronomists say that most farmers have grain drills that they could use to plant their soybeans in narrower rows.

And even though cultivating presents the biggest problem, they feel that this winter would be a good time to rig up a cultivator for narrow rows. Farmers who do so will be all set to pick up a sizable soybean yield bonus next summer.

The 1958 fall pig crop was 17 percent larger than that of 1957.

SUMMARY. The 1958 fall pig crop was 17 percent larger than that of one year before. Farmers reported intentions pointing to an increase of 13 percent in the 1959 spring pig crop over that of 1958.

ANALYSIS. The fall pig crop was 17 percent larger than that of one year before. Farmers saved 42,470,000 fall pigs, according to the USDA report issued on December 23. This number was 3 percent more than indicated when farmers reported their intentions back in June. The fall pig crop was the largest ever during World War II. In relation to population, it is also the largest produced except for two years since World War II, but not much larger than those of 1950 and 1951.

Pig crops of those years, however, sold during the Korean War—and while slaughter of cattle was small.

The monthly pattern of the fall sowings was not much different in 1958 from those of recent years, though it was more even than those of 10 years ago. The big month was, as usual, September, with 25.6 percent of the June-December total. August was a close second in fall sowings, with 23.8 percent. Biggest actual increase over 1957 was in August, when the increase was 19 percent. All the months showed some increase from year before fall sowings.

The 1958 fall pig crop was 19 percent smaller than the 1958 spring pig crop. Thus the output of pork in prospect for the next six months is less than it has been for the past six months, though much more than in the first half of 1958. Hog marketing may be bunches somewhat in January, as some farmers delayed marketing until after the 1958 income tax year. Hog slaughter may also bulge in March and April, when pigs from the August and September litters are rolled to market. Market receipts should drop off considerably in May and June.

Hog prices seem likely to range around $18 during the first six months of 1959. Discounts for extra weight have increased from a year ago will probably remain fairly large until late next summer.

1959 spring pig crop: If farmers carry out the intentions they reported in December, and if they save a normal number of pigs per litter, the 1959 spring pig crop will total about 50,000,000 head. This would be 13 percent more than in 1958. It would be the largest spring pig crop since 1951, when more than 61,000,000 spring pigs were saved, and 2 percent larger than that of 1955, which sold at around $10 at the end of the year.

This would be 13 percent more than in 1958. It would be the largest spring pig crop since 1951, when more than 61,000,000 spring pigs were saved, and 2 percent larger than that of 1955, which sold at around $10 at the end of the year.

One reason why this 20th annual Sports Festival should be the brightest and liveliest is because several new events have been added and the two-day climax at Champaign-Urbana has been re-established.

Bowling is the first in a series of events that dot the calendar for an event that will live up to its nickname of the "greatest" rural sporting event in the world."

Young adult basketball follows on April 4 with about 25 counties expected to see the championship. District elimination tournaments paring finalists to four teams will be set after entries are made by county Farm Bureaus by the Feb. 6 deadline.

County Farm Bureaus make entries in all events to Roy E. Will, Sports Festival manager and assistant secretary of the Illinois Agricultural Association. Merle Jeffers, Cattlin farmer, serves as chairman of the 11-man administrative committee.

The state trap shoot will be in July. Softball will begin early in the summer, for entry deadline for softball teams is June 20.

State finals in softball and all other events will be held at the two-day windup on Aug. 26-27 at the University of Illinois.

New events added in keeping with the request of rural people to widen the scope of the recreational program include square dancing, preliminaries of the Farm Bureau Young People Talent Find, horseshoes, shuffleboard for 35ers, 4-H and FFA tug-o-war, and volleyball.

Events presented last year and which will again be held as part of the two-day finale include swimming, 4-H physical fitness, and archery. Expanding the August climax to two days makes it possible to have 16 instead of eight teams qualify for the playoffs in each of the divisions.

Russia's 'Moon Shot'

By sending a rocket beyond the earth's gravitational pull and into orbit around the sun, the Soviet Union has shown the world that the race for outer space is a sharpening struggle.

The Russians, to be sure, missed their primary goal, which was to put the rocket into a path around the moon. But they fired their shot farther from the earth than any other man-made space object has ever traveled. And they greatly outdistanced America's two tries at the moon.

There can be no question that this is another major advance in the conquest of space, and that it is a victory the Russians felt they badly needed.

The world has widely hailed America's success in hurling into orbit the huge, talking Atlas missile. More than any other thing we have done in the space field, this persuaded millions abroad that we were abreast of our rugged Communist competitors.

The "moon shot" coming at this time is an obvious Soviet effort to recapture propaganda advantage. Russia lives by threats. And it cannot make convincing threats without the leverage of solid achievement.

In the experts' view, the Soviet long-distance rocket also was timed to coincide with the current U.S. visit of Deputy Soviet Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

It was abundantly clear to Premier Khrushchev that tough Soviet talk here or anywhere would be discounted so long as the talking Atlas was orbiting unanswered. But a Kremlin that has just beaten gravity with its latest rocket may imagine Mikoyan will get a more respectful hearing.

Actually both we and the Russians have had for a long time the capacity to destroy each other in nuclear holocaust. Neither our circling Atlas nor Moscow's "moon shot" gives any special additional military strategic edge to either competitor.

It does indicate that the striving for that extra advantage is intense. Little more than two weeks elapsed between our latest leap into space and the Russians'.

The Russian achievement only underscores that we cannot rest for an instant in this race. We must press on at all levels, from the fundamental education of our youth to the special concentrations that will keep America thrusting successfully toward the outer reaches of space.

It would be wonderful if what the Russians have done could be greeted purely as a scientific marvel promising benefit to all mankind. But hostile communism's goals of conquest give all of its triumphs overtones of peril for free men.

With those frightening reservations in mind, the world acknowledges another great thrust by adventuring man into the mysteries of the unknown.

No Traffic Triumph

When the highway fatality total for a long holiday weekend falls somewhat short of the National Safety Council's prediction, that fact is treated in some quarters almost as if it were a triumph of safe driving.

This is a colossal price to pay for the privilege of moving about in our own vehicles, at times and places of our own choosing.

The horrible part of it is that it is so largely a predictable price. The only thing we don't know in advance is who the ones are who will pay it.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every year now the country is being handed what amounts to two State of the Union messages: one from President Eisenhower, the other from Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, leader of the Senate Democrats.

Before Eisenhower could go up to Congress to deliver his today, Johnson had already stated his. He did it Wednesday at a Democratic meeting.

It's part of American history that at the beginning of each session of Congress the President tells the representatives and senators about the state of the union.

The message is in effect his program for the year. But it's up to Congress whether to make the program a reality with legislation.

Johnson, who denies he has any ambitions for the presidency, seems to be making his message an annual event, too. He did it last year before Eisenhower could travel up to the Capitol. Now he's done it again.

While Eisenhower's message might be considered the senior one and Johnson's just a junior message, both are important and for very obvious reason:

In a Congress where the Democrats have an overwhelming majority over the Republicans, Eisenhower is going to have to depend mostly on the Democrats to put his program through.

But Johnson, as leader of the Democrats, is in a good position to push for his own program over Eisenhower's if he doesn't like what the President offers. This year, as last, Johnson was critical of the Eisenhower administration's leadership.

The President's message, of course, gets complete coverage by the press and plenty of copies of it are made available. But the Johnson statement was widely distributed, too.

The two messages have one thing in common: They talk in broad, general terms. Eisenhower will follow up his during the year with more details in separate proposals he'll send up one at a time.

But Johnson even beat the President to that idea. Last Nov. 7, right after the Democrats had drowned the Republicans in the elections, Johnson made a speech before a group of Texas businessmen.

Out before he ever got there his speech was all prepared, mimeographed and distributed to newsmen in Washington, thus getting it for a maximum amount of publicity.

That human life should be so appallingly disregarded is evidenced in the number of violent deaths.

But this decreased estimate of the value of human life goes beyond acts of violence in much of the public attitude in general and much of its reflection in the destruction of human life.

We must not only take measures to restrain violence and insure greater protection against accidental deaths, but we must act to restore in positive ways the sense of the sacredness of life which to a large extent has given it more abundantly.

A great constructive purpose is needed if we are to combat the almost cynical indifference to the destruction of human life.

We must not only take measures to restrain violence and insure greater protection against accidental deaths, but we must act to restore in positive ways the sense of the sacredness of life which to a large extent has given it more abundantly.

And to life itself we must bring a deeper regard for the higher moral values and finer relationships of life is to give evidence of its sacredness.

Life in itself is neither good nor bad, but what we make it and the God who gave it intends that we should make it all that it can be.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Thou Shalt Not Kill

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

An appalling aspect of life today in this supposedly progressive 20th Century is the extent to which the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," is disregarded.

Historically, of course, the commandment has been flouted in formal wars, assassinations, murders, and in various forms of negligent fatal circumstances and accidents. But a present aspect is a deep and apparently increasing disregard of the value and sacredness of human life.

The two messages have one thing in common: They talk in broad, general terms. Eisenhower will follow up his during the year with more details in separate proposals he'll send up one at a time.

England's Queen Victoria was so charmed with the book "Alice in Wonderland," that when she met its shy author, she asked him to send her a copy of his next book, which he promised to do. Some time later, the Queen received a difficult mathematical work by Charles Lutwidge Dodgson—the same man, a math professor, better known by his pen name of Lewis Carroll.

The coming years of the 20th Century must be in a sense rediscovered and to evaluate "Thou shalt not kill." A sad reflection is upon how ineffective the commandment has been from the time of Moses himself. Genocide, the killing of a whole people, has been the most terrible tragedy of our century in the effort of Hitler and others to exterminate the Jews; but genocide goes back a long way into history, and even into Jewish history.

Deuteronomy 2:34, Numbers 31, 9, and similar passages are grim items in that ancient record.

One likes to realize how much it is an evidence of changed values, or of no value at all. Such deaths are simply taken for granted, with a passing tear or regret.

Human life must not stand in the way of "progress;" but undoubtedly far greater measures of prevention would be possible if the public were more vitally alerted to the tragedy, and impressed more effectively with the value of human life.

One of Washington's biggest publicity rubarb occurred recently when Hotel Corporation of America President A. M. Sonnabend came to town to dedicate a new hotel. Since Sonnabend is also a member of the board of directors of the Studebaker company, capital public relations experts planned a double-barreled promotion stunt.

They decided the perfect gimmick would be to have the executives arrive at the ultramodern motel waving to the crowd from the back seat of a 1918 Studebaker. Everything went according to plan until the mechanical relic was suddenly stopped.

After listening to a few records, she picked up the bottle, popped the cork and poured the liquid into a chilled glass. With the first sip, her New Year's Eve plans crumbled. The bottle contained perfume.

After kicking off a press conference with several rounds of high-powered martinis, some Westinghouse scientists announced the invention of an electronic computer called Upcom which they touted as the high-speed mechanical brains. Then they attempted to explain to the slightly woozy audience how it worked.

Soon a reporter complained that the explanation was completely over his head and asked if it couldn't be told in simpler words.

The Westinghouse spokesman said that it just so happened that the top Upcom research scientist was in the room and would be happy to clarify things.

The research man explained that he had only worked on the brain's early stages and was slightly hazy on how the whole unit operated. He passed the buck to another scientist.

This man said that he didn't really feel qualified to talk and asked the scientist who had opened the conference if he was an amateur.

Finally one reporter cracked that it might be better if everyone had a cup of coffee and then put his questions directly to Upcom.

Jerseyville Fire Loss $135,200 In Past 12 Months

JERSEYVILLE—Two big fires, one at the Wade Implement Company in January, and the other at the B-B Cafe in October, boosted the fire loss in Jerseyville during 1958 to an estimated total of $135,200, one of the highest in its history. In 1957 the fire loss totaled $37,950 estimated.

The Jerseyville Fire Department made 84 calls during the year, 18 of which were made to rural areas. Other fire calls were classified as follows: 18 house calls, 10 commercial, 12 grass fires, five sheds, three fires due to defective wiring; 10 stove and flue; seven car and one tree call. The department received no call from drowning during the year.

The major fires in the rural area to which the fire department made a run were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Fox, a barn on the Hartman farm and the tenant house on the Kentner Williams farm.

Ed. Weule is chief of the Jerseyville Fire Department and other members are: Charles Ward, assistant chief; Ray Brickley, Sr., captain; James Norris, secretary; Raymond Dugan, Carl Gross, Clarence Boner, Harry Wade, Jr., Charles Updike, George Embrey, Paul Miller and George Russell.

Wages Will Go Higher, But Job Market For Unskilled Will Grow Even Smaller

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In late January and February unemployment will jump to between 4.5 million and 4.8 million in the U. S.

This will result in strong moves in Congress for relief. Bills will be pushed to increase unemployment benefits and to provide aid for high-unemployment areas.

Economists are agreed that unemployment is "the sticky" economic problem of the 1959 business year. Right now, though production is roughly up to the pre-recession level, employment is up only a little from the bottom of the recession.

Wages will go up in 1959. The best guess is five per cent. But unemployment will be with us all year. Employment will lag way behind steadily growing production.

Despite strong employment gains next spring and summer, there will still be three million to 3.3 million unemployed in December, 1959. Or so think top U. S. Government and private economists interviewed by NEA Service.

There is even a feeling among some labor economists that the United States will have a permanently larger unemployment pool in the future. One expert estimates an unemployed group of at least three million "except in times of super boom."

This economist says that manufacturing is employing fewer and fewer men and women. Just before the recession, he says, manufacturing in the U. S. employed three-fourths of a million fewer than just one year before. He estimates that a hundred thousand of the men and women who lost their jobs in the auto industry during the recession will never get their jobs back. Machinery has replaced them.

Most of these people gradually will be absorbed by the growing construction, service, trade and other businesses, of course. Some will be employed by industries that make the new automatic machines.

But there is a growing group of what some economists call the new unemployables. These are neither the old nor the handicapped. They're the unskilled industrial workers. These unskilled workers have already been finding it more difficult to find jobs. They're going to have a harder time in 1959.

On the contrary, in 1959 there will be a growing shortage of specialists. There are already heavy and growing unfilled demands for electrical and mechanical engineers, technical writers, draftsmen, secretaries and typists, teachers, accountants, bookkeepers and technicians. These shortages are likely to get worse as the year goes on.

There will likely be an increased demand for many types of construction workers, such as bricklayers and electricians, in 1959.

Employment is also going to pick up in 1959 in the durable goods industries, and in steel and metal working.

This trend toward skilled workers is going to continue past 1959 into the 1960's and indefinitely, says the economists. Jobs in industry and business are going to require more education and training.

Says one labor expert: "The job that used to require a high school diploma, now demands a college man. Where they wanted college graduates, they now ask for an advanced degree. It's going to get worse."

Church Bell Calls Us

This tall church with the bell in its tower seems to be watching for us to answer its call and come to church or Sunday School doesn't it? It was drawn by Gail Moore, age 9, 612 North East St.

Gail may come in anytime for the JUNIOR JOURNALIST PENCIL and JUNIOR PRESS CARD which all earn who have anything printed on the Junior page.

Mystery Serial —

Muzzle-Loading Gun

By Loella Sloan Young

Synopsis: Georgie and Billy's Daddy tells them of the mysterious message he got with the old muzzle-loading gun from their Great-Grandfather. They find a note that seems to explain the mystery and following its directions they discover some hidden stairs.

Chapter 11: Hidden Stairs

"Come on," cried Daddy to the others, as he jumped over the edge of the platform and stared down the flight of dark, dusty, mysterious looking steps below the platform. "Where do they lead," he wondered.

"Billy," he ordered his son, "Go up to the door of the mill. Hanging on a nail inside, you'll find my old lantern I use when I come down here to fish. Bring it to me."

Not waiting to be told twice, as he sometimes did, Billy raced up the steps, taking at least two at a time. Finding the old lantern right where his father had told him, he snatched it from its nail, and hurried back to the place where his family waited by the dingy old stairway.

We rarely get close enough to these Longspurs to really be able to study them in the field. In spite of this members of the Jacksonville Bird Club had the privilege of studying two Longspurs at one of their meetings. One of the members, Gilbert Stauffer, had found two dead Longspurs, along with some Horned Larks, as he was driving along a country highway after the heavy snow following Thanksgiving Day.

When these cold hungry birds were trying desperately to find food on the road, a speeding car must have taken them unaware, plowed into the flock of birds, and killed many of them. Nature can be cruel, but man can sometimes be even more cruel, intentionally or unintentionally.

The members of the Club were able, at close hand, to locate the distinguishing marks of the Lapland Longspur. They saw its slender and nearly straight hind claw about the length of its toe.

They noticed that it looks a bit like a House Sparrow, with two white wing-bars, some black streakings on its sides, and parallel buffy lines on its back. We hate to think of such tragic deaths to those Longspurs; but if such a fate had to happen to them, we appreciate a little.

The fish begins secreting a transparent mucous envelope that begins at the mouth and extends back over the whole body.

Winn, who appears to be a tease in a scientific way, put one in an aquarium. As night approached, the fish was getting ready to hit the sack. Winn would flip on the lights.

Daddy Goes First

"I'll go first," Daddy offered. "The rest of you follow closely. You boys hold Mother's hand, and I will hold hers. That way we will not be separated in the darkness."

Slowly and cautiously Daddy began to descend the dark stairway. The air was hot and dusty, making them want to sneeze. Lower and lower they went into the inky blackness below. The air became much cooler, but remained dusty and stale.

After descending about twenty steps, the stairway ended, and they stepped into a long dark tunnel. Shining his lantern up and down, Daddy could see that the sides and ceiling appeared fairly dry, and were well supported by large crudely cut timbers. The air was even more close here but the little flame burned on.

"Shall we try to go farther into the tunnel?" Daddy asked his little family.

Mother Warns

"We'll never find out where it leads, unless we follow it to the end. Go slowly, and watch where you step, so you won't fall," Mother warned.

On and on they crept carefully shining the light about them as they went. Long ago all glimmer of light from behind had disappeared, leaving them in utter darkness except for the glow of the little lantern. The tunnel itself did not change in structure, except for a turn or two in its path.

Once a small animal, unidentified, scurried away down the tunnel. On and on and on they crept. At last, there was a noticeable change in the air. Fresh air currents could be felt on their faces, and the familiar odor of new mown hay reached them in their underground tunnel.

Exciting Discovery

"The Barn!" Daddy cried excitedly. "Now I know where we are. We're under the hay room in the barn! Can't you smell the new mown hay above us?"

At that moment, while Daddy was as excited in his discovery, he failed to look ahead and watch his step. His foot bumped a heavy object on the floor. Losing his balance from the bump, he fell

Let's Go Birding

CRUEL NATURE

By Emma Mae Leonhard

When snow has for days covered the fields, the granaries for our wintering birds, how do the birds survive? This is a question which often comes to those who are sensitive to that situation.

What is even more tragic to birds are the ice-bound fields and highways. In freezing weather birds must eat to keep alive.

Even if they can find weed seeds, they must also find gravel to grind the seeds. It is really a miracle that most of them survive.

The snow and ice seem to melt first on the gravelly shoulders of highways. As you have driven along icy roads or highways, you have probably seen small birds fly from the shoulders. They were trying desperately to peck out the seeds and gravel from the only open spots in the great expanse of snow and ice.

As soon as you rolled on, the birds were back until another car swished them away. They never gave up, and they rarely lost their battle.

These cold-weather birds of our fields and barren grounds are mostly Horned Larks, permanent residents here. Among them there may be a Lapland Longspur or two, but we have difficulty to spot them. In the winter they are in comparatively dull plumage without any outstanding marks, and look almost like the ground over which they run.

Many Longspurs

In late autumn those who know the characteristic rattling sound and Bobolink or Bluebird notes falling down upon them from the sky involuntarily stop and gaze skyward to catch a glimpse of the Longspurs that are flying over. We must be careful to distinguish the call of the Longspur from that of the Horned Lark that also sings a tinkling snitch of song as it flies above us. This fall many flocks of Longspurs have been heard as they were flying over the fields and woods around Lake Jacksonville.

We rarely get close enough to these Longspurs to really be able to study them in the field. In spite of this members of the Jacksonville Bird Club had the privilege of studying two Longspurs at one of their meetings. One of the members, Gilbert Stauffer, had found two dead Longspurs, along with some Horned Larks, as he was driving along a country highway after the heavy snow following Thanksgiving Day.

The Fish That Wears A Gown

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Far off in West Indian waters lives a colorful, bashful fish that each night before retiring puts on a nighty gown.

"Daddy! Daddy!" the boys cried out frightened.

"Bill! Bill!" Mother gasped. "Bill! Are you all right? Bill! Answer me! Where are you?"

Dr. Emmeli Martens Locates Here

Jacksonville has another woman physician. She is German born Dr. Emmeli Martens, assistant to Dr. Mary Louise Newman in the practice of obstetrics and gynecology. Dr. Martens, left, is pictured with Dr. Newman at the Newman Clinic, 34 West State street. She has been in this country since 1953 serving her internship at Rochester General Hospital and residency at St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, New York, and at the Tuberculosis Hospital, Mount Morris, New York. She received her American citizenship papers in August of 1958.

Dr. Martens' immediate family members are in the country and professional affiliation.

Dr. Martens has an apartment at 1710 South Main street. Although new to the community she has professed a genuine liking for Jacksonville, its hospitals and the people here.

The Illinois Medical Society suggested two possible locations, one at Greenville and the other Jacksonville. She chose the latter visiting the city in June when she met Dr. Newman and made necessary arrangements for the blonde, speaks English beautifully with delightful accent. Her engaging personality and youthful appearance blend appealingly with a serious but admirable professional manner.

The new physician in the community is a graduate of the University of Kiel. She is a native of Luebeck, Schleswig Holstein, Germany where she received her early education and later studied at University of Marburg, University of Hamburg and the University of Freiburg.

She did post graduate work in pediatrics and recent advancement in clinical medicine at the University of Buffalo, N. Y. She passed her Illinois State Board examination in August of 1957.

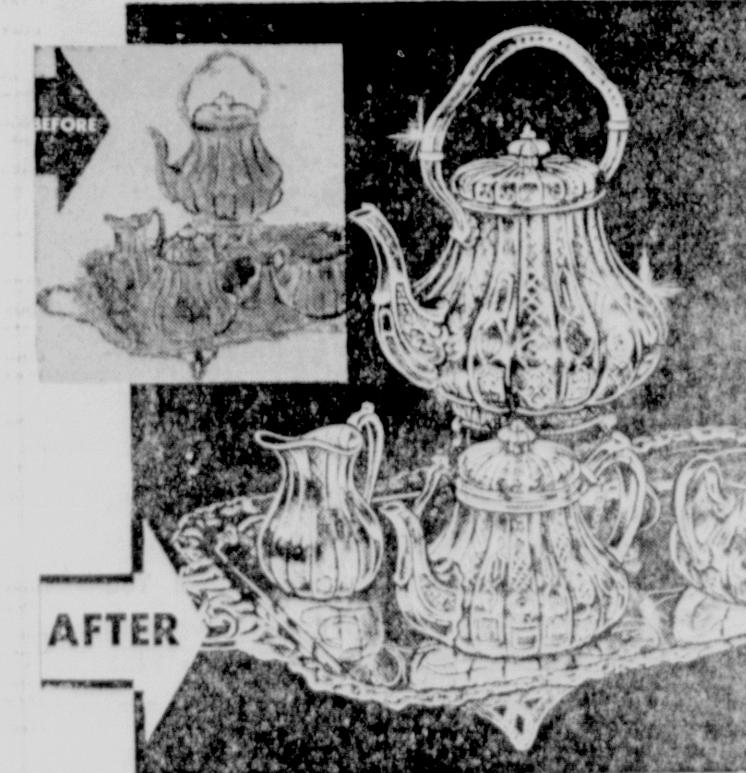

Dr. Martens, attractive and ash Monday.

Durbin WSCS Plans Shower For Bride-Elect

A 1 o'clock dessert preceded the December meeting of the Durbin Methodist church held at the church where Mrs. Myra Garris was hostess. Recordings of carols provided background during the serving.

Mrs. Lucille Oxley, president, was in charge. Prayer was offered by Rev. Garris and Mrs. Oxley had devotions. Seasonal program selections were presented by May Clayton and Mrs. Maxine Carpenter.

Routine business was conducted. Additional reports were made and Mrs. Lucille Oxley read a poem. An offering was taken for CARE. The Society will meet at 2 p.m. Jan. 21 at the home of Mrs. Bernadine McDevitt with Mrs. Clara Rawlings assistant. There will be a panty shower at the meeting honoring Miss Judith Anne Wells, a February bride-elect.

Arenzville Unit Cited By Legion Auxiliary Head

ARENZVILLE — The January meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held Monday night with Mrs. Joan Peck presiding and 18 members present. A donation of $5 was made to the March of Dimes. A citation was read from the National Auxiliary President, stating Arenzville Auxiliary Unit No. 604 enrolled its quota of membership by Oct. 20, 1958, and merits special commendation and recognition.

Mrs. Laura Hierman, Mrs. Marie Peck, and Mrs. Eloise Knight were appointed as the committee to make plans for the annual Legion birthday party.

Mrs. Marilyn Stock reported on the lunch served at the Fox Drive, and also at the New Year's Eve dance.

Mrs. Rosetta Fricke, child welfare chairman, reported a Christmas gift had been sent to Raymond Chisholm, the boy sponsored by the local Auxiliary at Bell Cottage, Normal. Mrs. Fricke also stated a clothing drive for Save The Children Federation will be held later in January, and clothing is needed for babies, children, and adults. Mrs. Wilma Jones reported on tray favors, which are sent to Jacksonville children each month.

The meeting closed with the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frieda Hierman, Miss Anna Herbert, and Mrs. Helen Hierman.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lovekamp and Carroll were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Potsic and daughter Donna of Nokomis. Keith Lovekamp of Carbondale was also a guest.

Club Plans Men's Night

Men's night will be observed by the Roodhouse Woman's Club Thursday night, Jan. 15, at a basket supper to be held in the Legion Home.

The program will include students music and dance numbers under the direction of Mrs. Grace Ann Martin.

Co-chairmen are Vera Million, June Martin, Pearl Mitchell, Dorothy Chapman, Pauline Sneed, Lottie Cunningham, Maggie Harris, Ada Castell.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Langley, Patterson Bay, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Nebelberg Tuesday night. The Langleys are spending several weeks in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Smith Ballard, and other relatives. Mrs. Langley's mother, Mrs. Eola Lenning, who resides with them, is spending the time with her sister, Mrs. Hazel Sage.

Services For James A. Gunn

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Mackey funeral home for James A. Gunn, 80, former Roodhouse resident who died Friday at Bishop, Calif. Organ music was played by Mrs. Merle Mackey, and the services were conducted by the Rev. Lee Anderson.

Casket bearers were Lee Strowmatt, Harry Strowmatt, Raymond Vestel, Carl Day, Delbert Hutton, Donald Smith. Burial was made in the Ebenezer cemetery northwest of Jacksonville. Services were under the auspices of IOOF, No. 4, Jacksonville.

Mrs. Lucy Cryder, St. Elmo is visiting in the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Otis Spencer, and husband, Mrs. Cryder's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Cryder are expected to arrive here from the same city Sunday.

Chapin Unit Entertained At Sidwell Home

The Cheerful Unit of Home Bureau met Jan. 2 at the home of Mrs. David Sidwell at Chapin. The president, Mrs. Lina Detmer, called the meeting to order.

Roll was answered by 13 members with a hobby each hopes to take up during the new year.

The major lesson, Fish Cookery, was given by the hostess and Tillie Schone. They prepared several recipes using fish.

The selected subject, Improving Your Memory, was presented by Mrs. Wendell Middendorf.

Guests were Mrs. Matske and Mrs. Six and several children. At the close of the meeting the prepared fish recipes were served with a salad, rolls, coffee or tea.

Several relatives were unable to attend due to illness.

Campaign Chairman's Wife Hosts Coffee

Trinity Church Elects New Vestrymen At Annual Meet

Omicron Chapter Meets At Jones Home In Lynnville

The Annual Parish Meeting of Trinity church was held Wednesday, Jan. 7, in the Parish Hall. An unusually large number of the members were present to hear the annual reports of the various parish organizations and to elect new vestrymen.

Those elected to this governing board of the parish were John Brummett, George W. Horton, John C. Jess, John Suphan, Jr., and John J. Woods. Mr. Horton had previously served on the vestry and as treasurer of the parish.

Other members of the vestry whose terms have not yet expired include J. E. Armitage, Dr. Thomas Auer, Richard Bond, Walter Bellatti, Dr. Charles Frank, Arthur Samoore and L. G. Taylor.

At the organizational meeting of the vestry Arthur Samoore was elected Junior Warden, Dr. Charles Frank, Clerk, J. E. Armitage, Treasurer, and W. R. Bellatti, Assistant Treasurer. The Rector, The Rev. George D. Clark, announced the appointment of Walter Bellatti to continue as Senior Warden of the parish.

One of the highlights of the parish meeting was the presentation to Mr. Walter Bellatti of a framed scroll of citation in appreciation for his unique service as vestryman for a period of 50 years and as Senior Warden for ten years. In voting on this resolution the members stood and sang the "Doxology."

Reports by the Rector, Treasurer, and heads of parish organizations disclosed a continuing growth in the life of the parish. Richard Bond, Superintendent of the Church School reported the highest number of children enrolled in recent history and an outstanding record of 90% average attendance in classes.

Miss Sandra Richele of MacMurray College, Vice President of the local Canterbury Association.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Near Golden Date

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Beeley

BLUFFS—The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Beeley of Bluffs will be marked with Open House at their home here from two to five in the afternoon on Sunday, Jan. 18th. All friends and relatives of the family are cordially invited.

Miss Etta Butcher and Grover Beeley were married Jan. 26, 1909 at Centenary church parsonage in Jacksonville by the Rev. McCarthy. They lived in Meredosia and the Jacksonville community engaging in farming and in 1932 moved to their present home, north of Bluffs.

They are the parents of six children, five of whom are living: Marvin of Aurora; Alfred living in California; Mrs. Dorothy Mortlock, Bernard Beeley and Mrs. Mardell Stubbe, all of Bluffs. One son, Jim Beeley of Jacksonville, died a number of years ago.

They have fourteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

the hostesses, Mrs. Lucille Jones, Mrs. Esther White, and Mrs. Estaleen Worrall served delicious refreshments.

The next meeting of Omicron Chapter will be held Wednesday evening, Feb. 4, at 6:30 p.m., at the Southern Aire Restaurant.

Those members wishing reservations are asked to contact Mrs. June Brand.

ROY COHN'S FATHER DIES

NEW YORK (AP)—Albert Cohn, 73, attorney and father of former Senate investigation committee counsel Roy M. Cohn, died today.

The Omicron Chapter was happy to welcome a new member, Mrs. Catherine Wright. Mrs. Wright, formerly a member of Tau Chapter in Springfield, is now residing in Jacksonville.

After the president, Mrs. Majel Siegrist, called the meeting to order, the members repeated the sorority pledge. The secretary, Mrs. Harriet Milburn, read the minutes of the last two meetings and called the roll. A treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Esther White.

At the close of the evening, the members enjoyed playing darts bridge. High prizes were won by Mrs. Ruth Ranson and Mrs. Majel Siegrist. Low prize was won by Mrs. Tamar Burch.

Keller, Hudson Spark Crimsons In 65-63 Victory Over Canton

By Stan Spotts

Lanky Jim Keller tossed in 24 points and Mike Hudson accounted for 18 tallies in the second half to spearhead Jacksonville High's come-from-behind triumph over Chuck Crosby's Little Giants of Canton before a full house at the JHS Bowl Friday night, 65-63.

The Jacks got some beautiful out-shooting from guard Mike Hudson in the final two periods to stay on even terms with favored Canton. The combination of hustle and determination plus some sterling teamwork on the part of the Crimsons was the deciding factor in the final outcome.

Routt Coasts To Easy 58-42 Win From Tallula

The Routt Rockets started slow Friday night but gained momentum in the final three frames to down the visiting Tallula team 58-42. The end of the first stanza saw the Routt five holding a slim 11-9 advantage.

Coach Winstead revised his line-up in starting Bill Tobin and the sophomore contributed eight points in the first half. Routt pulled away to an eight point halftime lead and were never threatened from that point.

Tallula held a slight height advantage but the aggressive play of the Routt squad and their fast break made the difference. Fred Curtis topped Routt scorers with 16 tallies and Sandy was high for the losers with 15 points. Trutter provided good rebounding strength for the Rockets with help from Walker and Fitzpatrick.

Coach Winstead cleared the bench in the final frame and the reserves kept up the scoring pace led by Bonjean.

The box score:

Ashland Sends Out Invitations For Industries

ASHLAND — Businessmen of Ashland met Tuesday night at the Newell Insurance office. Walter R. Lohman announced the proposed plan for open house at the remodeled and enlarged State Bank of Ashland.

Problems for planner Gregory Bassett to work on were discussed, and included traffic and parking in the business district; location of the new post office building and appearance of buildings.

A letter had been received from a Chicago firm wanting to relocate in a town of less than 10,000 population. However, the minimum distance from Chicago was 150 miles. It is hoped that other firms desiring to relocate can be interested in considering Ashland in the future. It was pointed out that some of the problems of interesting any factory in Ashland is the present lack of housing and lack of zoning.

Grandson Dies

Mrs. Howard Stiltz has returned home from Galva, where she has been visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Steiner, for the past two weeks. While there a son was born to the Steiners on Thursday, Dec. 19, but passed away soon after birth at the Kewanee hospital. Services were held on Friday afternoon with Rev. John S. Broeksmit officiating. Mrs. Steiner was formerly Miss Juanita Walton of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. William Awtall and family, of Sycamore, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Awtall of Mt. Vernon have returned to their respective homes, after a several days visit here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Awtall.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bendorff and family were recent visitors in East St. Louis with relatives.

Fred Hexter, Jr., who has been visiting in Wichita, Kan., with friends for several days, has returned home here.

Miss Imogene Nix, a former Ashland girl, now of Riverside, spent several days here with her many friends. She is the daugh-

Heads State Youth Committee

President Louis W. Norris of MacMurray College has been appointed chairman of a state committee which will consider problems affecting the nation's children and youth, it was announced Saturday.

He will lead the state Technical Consultants' Committee, composed of professional persons representing various disciplines and regions of the state. They will organize and identify issues affecting children and youth, recommending these to an Illinois Committee on White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Governor William G. Stratton has appointed the latter committee, which consists of a group of approximately 100 adult citizens and 20 youth members, with the Illinois Commission on Children serving as the Executive Committee.

Both committees will work together in forming conclusions prior to a 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth, which will consider problems raised by the various state committees.

Ike Appoints Committee

President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who will serve as honorary chairman of the March, 1960, meet, appointed members of the national committee. Arthur S. Flemming, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will be honorary vice-chairman.

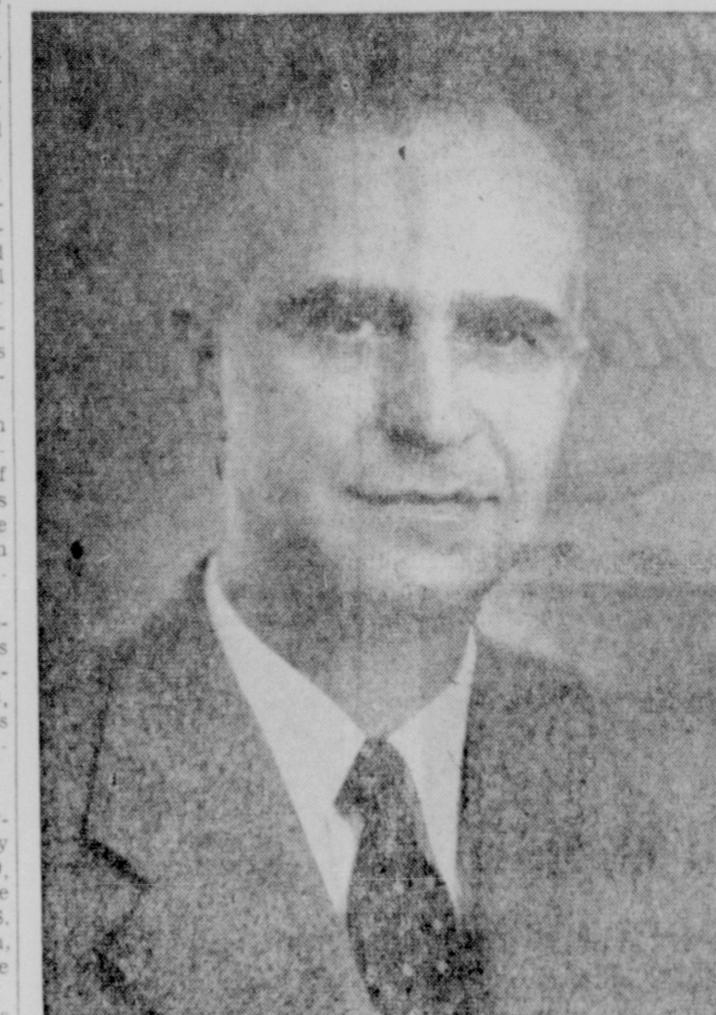

The 1960 conference, like its predecessors, is designed to take stock of the circumstances and prospects of the children of the nation and to bring attention and emphasis on policies and programs believed to be most effective in advancing their welfare.

The president is asking all agencies of the government, as well as private institutions and organizations, to cooperate with the conference committee.

Started By Teddy Roosevelt

This conference, to be known as the Golden Anniversary Conference, is a continuance of the traditional 10-year Conference, held within each decade since the first one called by President Theodore Roosevelt in 1909.

The idea for the White House Conference came from a young lawyer who had been raised in a Washington orphanage. He was impressed by the desirability of a fresh and constructive program in relation to child-caring agencies.

President Roosevelt responded to his suggestion and called together about 200 people representing many geographical areas and varieties of experience and opinion.

For the first time a call sounded throughout the nation to preserve and strengthen home life for children.

Outgrowths of the 1909 conference were the mothers' pension movement, the precursor of aid to dependent children, improvements in foster care of children, and the creation of a governmental agency—the Children's Bureau.

In the fourth White House Conference held in 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt asked the conference to consider two things:

"How a democracy can best serve its children; and, the corollary, how children can best be helped to grow into the kind of citizens who will know how to preserve and protect our democracy."

Adell Rebekahs Hold Officer Installation

ROODHOUSE—Adell Rebekah Lodge 148 held its first meeting of the new year Monday evening and installed new officers for the coming term. The district deputy team was in charge of the installation service with Thelma Bell Carrollton, serving as district deputy president. Other installing officers were Dorothy Brock Carrollton, marshal; Nova Lyons White Hall, warden; Leona Coonrod, White Hall, treasurer; Ruth Rhodes, Roodhouse, recording and financial secretary; Lena Keyes Carrollton, chaplain; Lucy Linker, White Hall, inside guardian.

Because of illness, Louise Stevens, noble grand elect, could not be installed at this time. Other officers installed were as follows: Vice grand, Ethel Alred; recording secretary, Julia Anthony; financial secretary, Mollie Todd; treasurer, Jean Wolfe; musician, Hazel Sage.

Warden, Louise Ballard; conductor, Olive Spencer; chaplain, Susan Winn; inside guardian, Rachel Keller; outside guardian, Anna Roe.

RSNG, Ruth Shaw; LSNG, Nettie Langley; RSVG, Eliza Roper; LSVG, Ida Henderson.

At the close of the installation Ruth Shaw presented the retiring noble grand, Mollie Todd, with a gift from the lodge, in appreciation of her services for the past year. The group adjourned to the dining room where refreshments were served with Ruth Rhodes and Nettie Langley in charge of the decorations. Julia Benner gave the prayer of grace.

The school of instruction will be held at the next regular meeting, January 19, with a potluck supper to be served at 6:30 p.m. preceding the meeting at 7:30.

There's peace of mind with outdoor lighting

There's a sense of security that comes with outdoor lighting around the home. With lights on your walk and on the garage you make those back and forth trips at night with greater comfort and safety.

For real convenience, install a garage light operated by a three-way switch from the house or garage. Switch the garage light on as you leave the house . . . leave it on to welcome you home . . . switch it off from the house when you return.

By the way, permanent outdoor lighting installations are easier and quicker nowadays, using the new plastic underground cable. Why not ask your electrical contractor for details.

Outdoor lighting means safety and convenience all year long.

He thought of Dr. Emile, who had written: "In the next room?" If there was a next room?

I so, were there windows, was there individuality, memory, a reaching out and encompassing?

He did not know; there was no way of knowing. But as he tilted his eyes and watched the older man follow the nurse and wonder why the woman hadn't returned, perhaps his mind said common-sense, that she had left for a separate door, he felt a curious sense of tranquillity, for that which he and Hope together had was not wholly flesh nor entirely mind but something reaching through one into the other and them beyond.

There was a ladder and you climbed it. There was the first rung and, if you were fortunate, it was solid, it held and sustained you; there was a second rung, and from that you could see a little further, upward; this also sustained you and here was the third and toward that you groped and if you found and held to it.

Oh, he was not alone in this room, he thought with such an unsurfacing knowledge that he was shaken, nor was Hope alone. Wherever she was—on the beach watching a tide come in or outward flow, seeing the withdrawn waters of the deep or the full, deep waters of the flood, or in the slant-roofed house with Emmy and Boy—she was, nevertheless, here, in this commonplace room, her hands in his hands, her eyes looking at him, her love wrapping him around, warming him, flesh and bone, and he was there with her, on the beach, in the house, walking a road, taking her into his arms and heart.

This was the third rung; it was not the end nor even near it; it was the beginning of ascent. Now he knew that, whatever he would

"What a darling!" When it was four o'clock—

Family life—“I wonder what happened with Adam by now?—Hope took Emmy and the Irish home. Boy had a rubdown and Emmy a bath, and her mother sat with her at supper and put Boy in his dish and said, when Boy looked up and Emmy questioned, that it was a little early, she would eat later. Emmy protested that it was then much too early for bedtime but she was sleepy from the sun; she was scrubbed and glowing and now the wind had risen again and whispered about the house. So Emmy was compensated for bed before sundown as it was her mother's bid in which she would lie down to sleep upon a slightly sagging mattress upon which her body made less imprint than the fragile feet of sandpipers on the shore. And as the room had a hearth and a fire laid, and Emmy begged Hope not a match to kindling and paper, and it caught and the light went flickering around the old walls minniated past, until Emmy cried out with pleasure. She had never before been awake in a room in which a living creature talked to itself incognito concerning its own brief secret life.

Hope set the high guard about the hearth, left a small lamp burning, and went downstairs away from this fire because only the other night, Adam had built another Heated it, and they had lain together there.

Downstairs she put a match to the fire laid there; there was driftwood among the logs and these burned with a blue-green flame, a peacock beauty, dazzling clear and sparked with gold.

Hope looked at the fire and wondered where she had been all day. Wondering, she knew she had been in the past and in the possible future; she had been sitting in a room she could not describe, as she had never seen it, with a man she knew as intimately as one human being could know another; she had put her hands in his hands, looked into his eyes, and cast her love about him like a cloak.
